Since the Illinois Supreme Court has mandated mediation for divorcing couples who cannot agree on a custody plan, the demand for mediators has skyrocketed. In addition, many court jurisdictions in Missouri have also mandated mediation, including St. Louis County, Jefferson County, St. Charles County and St. Louis City.

This course is designed to provide participants with a clear understanding of the role of mediator as it differs from that of legal advocate, judge or counselor. The five-day training will include videotaped demonstrations, lectures and discussions as well as role-play and coaching. We will discuss alternative dispute resolution strategies, domestic violence issues, financial and custody matters and family dynamics. Participants will receive a detailed 250+ page course manual.

Completion of the 40-Hour (5-Day) course meets the requirements of Illinois Supreme Court Rules 99 and 905 and Missouri Supreme Court Rules 17 and 88 to be a court approved mediator (local requirements may vary).
